

Advancing the Consumer and Purchaser Advocacy Agenda for Better Quality, More Affordable Care

About the Timeline of Activities

The following pages include the strategies the Consumer-Purchaser Disclosure Project is pursuing to achieve a high quality, affordable health care system. Activities to support the strategies, including participation in health care reform regulatory activity, are listed. Some activities may fall under multiple categories. This is not an exhaustive list of the project's activities. The timeline will be updated monthly to reflect new activities and regulations.

About the CPDP

The Consumer-Purchaser Disclosure Project is a broad coalition dedicated to improving the quality and affordability of health care in America for consumers and health care purchasers. The project's mission is to put the patient in the driver's seat—by sharing meaningful information about provider performance so that patients can make informed choices, providers can improve the quality of the care they deliver, and the health care system can better reward the best performing providers. The coalition is comprised of leading national and local consumer organizations, employers and labor organizations. The CPDP is funded by the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation along with support from participating organizations.

STRATEGIES

- Ensure “availability of better performance measures” on page 2, including cost and patient-centric measures, and help foster the use of health information technology to support efficient collection and use of performance measurement
- Promote effective use of performance measurement on page 4, for transparency, accountability and quality improvement in public and private sectors, including in Health Insurance Exchanges
- Advocate for payment models on page 8, that reward value and incentivize higher quality and more efficient care delivery
- Encourage public and private sector “collaboration and alignment” on page 13, in performance measurement and payment
- Amplify the “consumer and purchaser” on page 15, voice in all of the above

STRATEGIES AT A GLANCE

For a list of common health policy acronyms see page 17.

Ensure availability of better performance measures, including cost and patient-centric measures, and foster the use of health information technology to support efficient collection and use of performance measurement.

Examples of what CPDP is doing

- Advocating for health information technology (HIT) activities, such as meaningful use, that support effective and efficient collection of performance measures, deliver real-time provider feedback and decision support, and result in improved health outcomes and patient engagement.
- Working with measure developers to design more measures that give consumers and purchasers information that matters to them; helping to establish such measures as national standards through the National Quality Forum endorsement process.
- Supporting strong consumer and purchaser participation in NQF governance and strategy and providing ongoing guidance to consumers and purchasers throughout the endorsement process.

Advocate for payment models that reward value and foster better quality and more efficient care delivery

Examples of what CPDP is doing

- Leading formal and informal advocacy with the Department of Health and Human Services, Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services and other federal agencies to overhaul the payment system and foster higher value.
- Working with CMS and Center for Medicare and Medicaid Innovation to promote implementation of specific CPDP criteria/principles into new models of care such as Accountable Care Organizations.
- Working with CMS and CMMI on payment programs to ensure that they use effective measurement and accountability to achieve better quality and lower costs.
- Collaborating with the Catalyst for Payment Reform as it develops and implements strategies for private sector employers to drive value-based purchasing and payment in private sector health care services.

Encourage public and private sector collaboration and alignment in performance measurement and payment

Examples of what CPDP is doing

- Creating a model dashboard of what a comprehensive, meaningful measurement set should look like for payment pilots.
- Ensuring that Medicare data released for aggregation with private claims data has the least number of restrictions possible, while protecting patient privacy and security. Ample multi-payer data is critical to good measurement.

Amplify the consumer and purchaser voice in all the above strategies

Examples of what CPDP is doing

- Nominating consumers and purchasers to influential boards and bodies, both established and new bodies.
- Providing tools, resources and strategic advice to consumers and purchasers working on established boards and bodies.
- Ensuring the consumer and purchaser voice is a part of the regulatory process – making sure they have a “seat at the table,” recruiting and supporting participants in listening sessions, organizing sign on letters, etc.
